Sittie Aminah Q. Dimaporo

Sittie Aminah Quibranza Dimaporo (born August 27, 1986) is a Filipino politician and a member of the House of Representatives of the Philippines (https://congress.gov.ph) representing Lanao del Norte's 2nd congressional district under the Lakas-CMD party.

She is the daughter of former Governor and long-serving Congressman Abdullah D. Dimaporo and Governor Imelda Quibranza Dimaporo, and the granddaughter of the late Mohammad Ali Dimaporo, widely regarded as the patriarch of one of the most enduring political families in Northern Mindanao.

First elected in 2022 and re-elected in 2025, Aminah carries forward a family legacy that has shaped Lanao del Norte politics since 1949, while carving out her own identity in the national legislature through a legislative agenda focused on infrastructure, education, environmental protection, and women's welfare.

Her very name tells part of her story. "Sittie" is an honorific title of Arabic origin (from "Sayyida," meaning Lady) used widely in Maranao and broader Bangsamoro communities to denote female dignity and nobility. Bearing that title alongside her mother's Quibranza surname and her father's Dimaporo name, she embodies, quite literally, the fusion of two families whose intertwined history defined the political geography of Lanao del Norte for over seven decades.

Background and Family

Sittie Aminah Quibranza Dimaporo was born on August 27, 1986, in San Juan, Metro Manila, though she grew up deeply rooted in Lanao del Norte in Northern Mindanao, the province her family has governed in various capacities since the early 1960s.

Her father, Abdullah D. Dimaporo, is the son of the late Mohammad Ali Dimaporo, a towering figure in Philippine Muslim politics who served as Governor of Lanao del Norte and later Lanao del Sur, as well as a long-time member of Congress.<ref name="mali">Ager, M. C., et al. "Mohammad Ali Dimaporo." Wikipedia. Retrieved March 2026. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mohammad_Ali_Dimaporo</ref>

Mohammad Ali Dimaporo, who died on April 21, 2004, was regarded as one of the most powerful Muslim politicians in the Philippines during the martial law era, often described as the only Muslim politician whom President Ferdinand Marcos genuinely trusted.<ref name="mali"/> His death did not dim the family's influence; if anything, it galvanized succeeding generations to continue his work in Lanao.

Aminah's mother, Imelda Quibranza Dimaporo, known fondly as "Angging," is the daughter of the late Arsenio A. Quibranza, a Christian immigrant from Cebu who rose to become vice governor and later governor of Lanao del Norte.<ref name="imelda">Imelda Dimaporo. Wikipedia. Retrieved March 2026. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Imelda_Dimaporo</ref>

The union of Abdullah Dimaporo and Imelda Quibranza in 1977, conducted in both a civil and an Islamic ceremony, was remarkable precisely because Abdullah was the son of Arsenio Quibranza's political rival.<ref name="imelda"/> That marriage, far from being merely a personal event, became a defining moment for Lanao del Norte: it symbolically united the province's two most powerful political clans and effectively ended the rivalry between the Dimaporos and the Quibranzas, replacing it with a unified political household that has held the province's top offices without interruption since 1992.<ref name="rappler2025">Maligro, T. Aminah is one of five children of Abdullah and Imelda. Her brother, Mohamad Khalid Q. Dimaporo, who served three consecutive terms as 1st District Representative, was elected Governor of Lanao del Norte in the May 2025 elections.<ref name="rappler2025"/> Her sister, Fatimah Aliah Dimaporo, briefly held the 2nd District congressional seat from 2010 to 2013 before Abdullah returned to Congress, and later served as Undersecretary for Legislative Affairs at the Department of Social Welfare and Development (https://dswd.gov.ph).<ref name="rappler2024">Maligro, T. Aminah is married to Ulwan Dimaporo, who is himself from the extended Dimaporo clan and has served as mayor of Sultan Naga Dimaporo, the municipality named after their shared family patriarch.<ref name="sunstar2010">Sun.Star. Education

Specific details about Sittie Aminah Quibranza Dimaporo's academic credentials have not been made part of her public legislative record, and no educational background has been officially disclosed in her House of Representatives profile or other publicly accessible government documents as of the time of this article's writing.

Career

Provincial Service

Before entering the national legislature, Aminah served as the Provincial Administrator of Lanao del Norte, a role that gave her direct experience in governance, public administration, and the day-to-day workings of the provincial government her family has led for decades.<ref name="keri2014">Keri Express Marawi. "Provincial Administrator of Lanao Del Norte Sittie Aminah Quibranza Dimaporo." Facebook/Keri Express Marawi. That role was a natural stepping stone. As Provincial Administrator, she worked under the administration of her mother Governor Imelda, gaining exposure to the breadth of governance issues in Lanao del Norte, from infrastructure deficits and agricultural development to the persistent challenge of connecting interior municipalities to the province's main road network.

First Term in Congress (2022 to 2025)

In the May 9, 2022 national elections, Sittie Aminah ran for the congressional seat of Lanao del Norte's 2nd District under the Lakas-CMD party, succeeding her father Abdullah who had reached his term limit after three consecutive terms in that seat.<ref name="peoplaid">PeoPlaid. "Sittie Aminah Dimaporo Biography." March 29, 2023. https://peoplaid.com/2023/03/29/sittie-aminah-dimaporo/</ref>

She won decisively, defeating Jose Patalinghug Jr. of the Philippine Federal Party (PFP), and took office on June 30, 2022 as a member of the 19th Congress of the Philippines (https://congress.gov.ph).<ref name="rappler2022">Rappler. "Profile: Sittie Aminah Dimaporo, Candidate for Member, House of Representatives." 2022. https://phvote2022.rappler.com/elections/2022/candidates/sittie-aminah-quibranza-dimaporo</ref>

Upon assumption of office, she was assigned to the Committee on Women and Gender Equality as its Vice Chairperson, a position that aligned her legislative focus with the welfare of women and marginalized communities in her district and beyond.<ref name="peoplaid"/>

Throughout her first term, Aminah principally authored and co-authored a range of bills addressing the most concrete development needs of her district: road construction, skills training, environmental protection, agriculture, aquaculture, and institutional capacity. Among her notable principal-authored measures were:

- HB01857: An act providing for the construction of a national highway connecting the municipalities of Matungao, Poona Piagapo, Kauswagan, and Balo-i in Lanao del Norte, linking the Linamon-Zamboanga National Highway in Kauswagan to the Miraic National Highway in Matungao and onward to Misamis Oriental.<ref name="congress1">House of Representatives of the Philippines. - HB01865: An act establishing a TESDA Training and Assessment Center in the municipality of Tubod, to be known as the Tubod TESDA Training and Assessment Center.<ref name="congress1"/>

Together with her brother Khalid, she co-authored several other measures that were approved by the House and transmitted to the Senate, including:

- An act establishing the Mindanao State University-Lanao del Norte Agricultural College (MSU-LNAC) Arboretum in Barangay Ramain, Sultan Naga Dimaporo, approved by the House on March 6, 2023.<ref

name="congress2">House of Representatives of the Philippines. "Bills Search – Dimaporo, Sittie Aminah." https://www.congress.gov.ph/members/search.php?id=dimaporo-s</ref>

- An act establishing a BFAR Coastal Aquaculture Center in the municipality of Lala, Lanao del Norte, approved by the House on August 9, 2023.<ref name="congress2"/>
- An act establishing a crab hatchery for mud crabs at Mindanao State University-Naawan in Misamis Oriental, aimed at boosting aquaculture production in the broader Northern Mindanao region.<ref name="congress2"/>
- An act declaring the Sultan Naga Dimaporo Protected Landscape and Seascape as a component of the National Integrated Protected Areas System, approved by the House on August 9, 2023.<ref name="congress2"/>
- An act providing for the construction of the Iligan-Aurora Bypass Road, a significant infrastructure corridor linking multiple interior municipalities of Lanao del Norte.<ref name="congress2"/>

Aminah also co-authored the bill establishing a Philippine High School for Creative Arts System, a national measure seeking to institutionalize the creative arts track within the K-12 basic education program.<ref name="mb2022">Manila Bulletin. Beyond infrastructure and education, she lent her name to legislative initiatives covering consumer protection in electronic commerce, voter registration reform, and women's rights, consistent with her committee assignment.<ref name="ldr">Senate Legislative Reference Bureau. Re-election and Second Term (2025 to present)

In the May 12, 2025 midterm elections, Aminah ran for a second and final term as 2nd District Representative, this time under the Lakas-CMD banner, challenged by Amer Nagamura Moner Sr., a former Shari'a court judge.<ref name="rappler2024"/>

She won decisively. The Provincial Board of Canvassers of Lanao del Norte proclaimed her the winner with 142,181 votes against Moner's 17,387, a margin that underscored the sustained confidence of her constituents in her family's stewardship of the province.<ref name="pgldn2025">Provincial Government of Lanao del Norte. "Dimaporos continue to dominate in Lanao Norte polls." May 19, 2025. https://lanaodelnorte.gov.ph/dimaporos-continue-to-dominate-in-lanao-norte-polls/</ref>

Upon her proclamation, Aminah issued a statement of gratitude and commitment, delivered in Cebuano, the lingua franca of much of Mindanao:

> "Nagtan-aw ko nga padayon kong mag-alagad kaninyo sa akong ikaduhang termino isip Kongresista sa 2nd District sa Lanao del Norte. Ang inyong pagsalig ug kumpiyansa kanako naghatag ug dugang kadasig sa ako nga molihok pa ug mas lig-on aron masiguro nga magpadayon ang malungtarong kalambuan sa 2nd congressional district."

(Translation: "I look forward to continuing to serve you in my second term as Congresswoman of the 2nd District of Lanao del Norte. Your trust and confidence in me have given me further motivation to work harder and stronger to ensure the continuation of sustainable development in the 2nd congressional district.")<ref

She assumed her second term as part of the 20th Congress of the Philippines, alongside her mother Imelda who won the 1st District seat, and her brother Khalid who was sworn in as governor. The 2025 results effectively consolidated the Dimaporo family's hold on all of Lanao del Norte's top elective positions simultaneously, a feat unprecedented even by the dynasty's own historical standards.<ref name="rappler2025"/>

Legislative Focus and Contributions

Aminah's legislative record in the 19th Congress reflects a clear set of priorities that she has consistently articulated both through bills filed and committee work. Three broad themes run through her work.

Infrastructure Connectivity

The 2nd District of Lanao del Norte includes several interior municipalities that remain poorly connected to the province's main road network, hampering economic activity and access to public services. Aminah has consistently filed and co-authored bills specifically targeting these gaps: the Kauswagan-Matungao-Misamis Oriental highway, the Iligan-Aurora bypass road, and a proposed international ship port in Sultan Naga Dimaporo, among others.<ref name="congress2"/>

Skills Training and Educational Access

The TESDA Training and Assessment Center bill for Tubod, authored in her first term, reflects an understanding that vocational and technical skills development is often a more immediate and accessible pathway to economic improvement for many constituents than formal college education. The MSU-LNAC Arboretum, meanwhile, points to a longer-term investment in agricultural science education within the province.<ref name="congress1"/> <ref name="congress2"/>

Environment and Natural Resources

The Sultan Naga Dimaporo Protected Landscape and Seascape legislation, together with the aquaculture-related bills for coastal and marine resource management in Lala and Naawan, reflect an awareness of the ecological endowments of the Lanao del Norte coastline and the need to protect them while also supporting the livelihoods of fishing communities.<ref name="congress2"/>

Women and Gender Equality

As Vice Chairperson of the Committee on Women and Gender Equality, Aminah has co-authored measures addressing violence against women and children, consumer protection for women in digital transactions, and other legislative initiatives seeking to strengthen the legal framework for gender equality in the Philippines.<ref name="ldr"/>

Cultural Significance

The name "Sittie Aminah" carries weight beyond family naming conventions. In Maranao and broader Bangsamoro cultural tradition, the honorific "Sittie" is not casually bestowed. Derived from the Arabic "Sayyida," it is a designation historically reserved for women of noble descent or distinguished spiritual standing. It also carries resonance as the name of the Prophet Muhammad's mother, Aminah bint Wahb, lending the name a dimension of religious and cultural reverence across Muslim communities.

That Sittie Aminah Quibranza Dimaporo holds this name while representing a predominantly Muslim district in a region that has historically struggled for recognition, peace, and development gives her political presence a dimension that transcends partisan affiliation. She is, in a sense, a living intersection of the province's two founding political traditions: the Islamic cultural heritage of the Dimaporos and the Christian immigrant roots of the Quibranzas, both now folded into a single family, and a single public servant.

Her presence in Congress as a young Muslim Filipina from Mindanao also contributes, quietly but visibly, to the representation of the Bangsamoro community in national governance. The 2nd District of Lanao del Norte encompasses municipalities with significant Muslim populations, and having a representative who carries a Muslim honorific title and a family name deeply embedded in the history of Muslim political leadership in Mindanao gives those communities a recognizable face in the national legislature.

Legacy and Political Context

The Dimaporo dynasty is one of the most studied examples of political dynasty in the Philippines. Aminah's career needs to be understood within that context, not as a diminishment of her individual contributions, but as a framework that shapes both the opportunities and the responsibilities she carries.

The family's unbroken control of Lanao del Norte's top positions since 1992 draws both admiration and scrutiny. Critics of political dynasties point to entrenched power structures that can limit democratic competition. Supporters of the Dimaporo record point to a province that has, under their stewardship, received significant infrastructure investments, managed intercommunal peace between its Christian and Muslim populations, and maintained relative stability in a region historically prone to conflict.<ref name="rappler2024"/>

Governor Imelda Quibranza Dimaporo's flagship service delivery program "Alagang Angging," which brought government services directly to communities through the Especial Mass Based Program (EMBP), is one example of how the family has built loyalty through direct service delivery rather than coercion alone.<ref name="lpp">League of Provinces of the Philippines. "Profile of Gov. Imelda Quibranza Dimaporo, Lanao del Norte." https://lpp.gov.ph/profile-of-gov-imelda-quibranza-dimaporo-lanao-del-norte/</ref>

Aminah enters her second term as part of a family that is simultaneously holding the governorship (Khalid), the 1st District congressional seat (Imelda), and the 2nd District congressional seat (Aminah) at the same time, a consolidation that sets the stage for the next phase of political transitions in the province after the current term limits run their course.<ref name="pgldn2025"/>

For the people of the 2nd District, Aminah's re-election with 142,181 votes against an opponent who managed only 17,387 speaks to a degree of trust that goes beyond family name recognition alone. Whether that trust will be rewarded by concrete, measurable development outcomes in her second and final term remains the central question of her legislative career.

Recognition

Sittie Aminah Quibranza Dimaporo was formally received as the 2nd District Representative of Lanao del Norte during the call of Japanese Consul General Ishikawa on his visit to Tubod, Lanao del Norte, alongside her parents, reflecting the province's growing engagement with international partners on economic development.<ref name="japan">Consulate-General of Japan in Davao.
