Early Life and Family

General Marohombsar belongs to the Marohombsar clan, a historically influential and well-respected family lineage based in the province of Lanao del Sur within the Bangsamoro region. Raised in an environment heavily shaped by Meranao culture and civic expectations, he was taught early on the core values of honor, integrity, and responsibility to the community. Within his extended family network, he remains a unifying figure who regularly spearheads initiatives aimed at preserving the clan's historical legacy. This includes active participation in major clan milestones, such as the United Marohombsar Grand Reunion hosted at the Dimaporo Gymnasium on the Mindanao State University (MSU) Main Campus in Marawi City.

Education and Military Foundation

His foundational discipline and leadership training began in the mid-1970s within the armed forces.

Pull Quote

"From frontline command to the dean's office, the title 'General Dean' carries both a soldier's discipline and an elder's duty to his people."

Career and Public Service

Law Enforcement Leadership

Marohombsar transitioned his security career into the Philippine National Police (PNP), where he rose through the officer ranks to hold critical field commands in conflict-prone areas of Mindanao. He primarily operated within police intelligence and strategic field operations, securing a reputation for mitigating urban crime, kidnapping syndicates, and local insurgencies.

- Cotabato City Police Director: During the late 2000s, Marohombsar served as a Police Senior Superintendent (equivalent to Police Colonel) and the City Police Director for Cotabato City. His tenure was marked by navigating highly complex security issues, including investigating high-profile ambushes, tracking down fugitive political figures, and handling urban disasters.
- Anti-Kidnapping Campaigns: He managed local security during a period of frequent kidnapping incidents orchestrated by organized syndicates. Marohombsar notably challenged broader institutional frameworks by publicly noting that several apprehended suspects admitted to receiving protection from corrupted government figures. He also coordinated closely with regional stakeholders, Muslim clerics, and the joint ceasefire committees of the government and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) to maintain territorial stability.
- Sarangani Provincial Director: He later extended his institutional leadership across south-central Mindanao, serving as the Provincial Director of the Sarangani Police Provincial Office.

Post-Retirement and Academic Transition

After retiring from active duty in the PNP, Marohombsar entered the education sector. Utilizing his administrative background and legal knowledge in criminology and public safety, he took on institutional management roles. He serves as an academic administrator and Dean at Goldenstate College, a higher education institution located in General Santos City. In this capacity, he guides curriculum development and professional training for future public safety practitioners.

Civic Contributions and Policy Views

Marohombsar continues to be an active voice in community governance, public safety policy, and regional legal issues. He regularly engages with regional media outlets to champion structural changes in law enforcement.

- Police Visibility: He advocates for heightened police visibility and the institutional deployment of proactive patrols to deter street-level criminality.
- Student Safety Infrastructure: Leveraging his platform as an academic dean, he has publicly urged local government units in Mindanao to implement stringent safety perimeters and specialized protection protocols around schools and university zones to shield students from urban criminal threats.
- Community Partnerships: He maintains that effective law enforcement relies entirely on strong community-police partnerships, encouraging civilian cooperation and local government integration to sustain peace and order.

Cultural and Historical Significance

Within the cultural framework of Lanao del Sur and the wider Bangsamoro community, Marohombsar carries distinct significance as a clan elder. The traditional title of "General Dean" represents a unique fusion of modern institutional achievements (his rank as a police general/senior commander and his role as a college dean) with traditional Meranao governance structures, where senior professionals are formal asset-holders of family values, dispute resolution, and historical lineage.
