Early Life

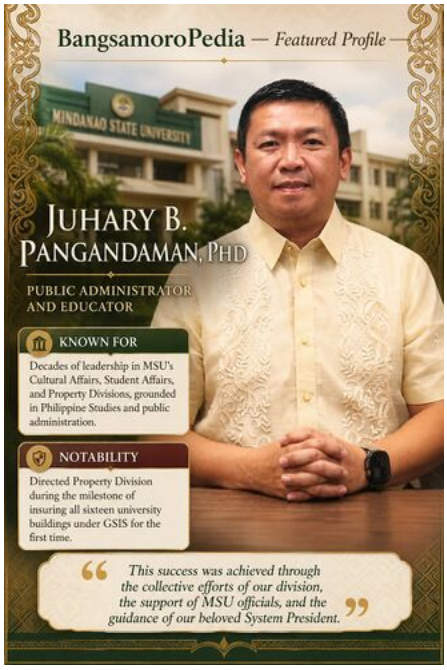

Dr. Pangandaman was born in Marinaut, Marawi City, Lanao del Sur. His roots run deep into two communities that Meranaw people know well for their cultural weight: Tugaya, his mother's hometown and the center of centuries-old Meranaw artistry and craftsmanship, and Bubong, Barangay Panalawan, where his father's family comes from. Growing up between these two lineages gave him an early appreciation for heritage and craftsmanship, themes that would later echo in his work protecting and preserving institutional resources.

He finished elementary school at Marinaut Elementary School, then went on to secondary school at the Mindanao State University University Training Center (MSU-UTC) in Marawi City, staying close to the institution that would eventually define his entire professional life.

Education

Dr. Pangandaman's academic path stayed almost entirely within Mindanao State University, a rare kind of loyalty that speaks to how much the institution shaped him. He earned his undergraduate degree

Notability

Led the Property Division of Mindanao State University during the historic milestone of insuring all sixteen academic and administrative buildings of the University under GSIS for the first time in its history.

Known For

Decades of institutional leadership across MSU's Cultural Affairs Office, Student Affairs Division, and Property Division, paired with a scholarly grounding in Philippine Studies and public administration.

Pull Quote

"This accomplishment was made possible through the collective efforts of our Property Division personnel, the steadfast support of our University officials, and the trust and guidance of our beloved MSU System President."

His time at the Property Division stands out as a defining chapter. Under his leadership, all sixteen academic and administrative buildings of Mindanao State University, along with their contents, were insured under the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) for the first time in the university's history. It was a milestone years in the making, one that finally gave the institution real protection against unforeseen risks and secured public property for future generations of students.

He currently holds the itemized position of Director II at the MSU Main Campus and continues to serve as Special Disbursing Officer, a role entrusted with key fiscal and administrative duties for the University.

Awards and Recognition

Dr. Pangandaman's contributions to MSU have not gone unnoticed. He is a two-time consecutive recipient of the MSU Model Employee Award, winning it in both 2007 and 2008, an honor recognizing his proactive attitude, sense of duty, and humanitarian service to the university community.

In 2008, the Office of the President of Mindanao State University conferred on him the Distinguished University Service Award, recognizing his exceptional performance and contributions to the institution. He was also recognized for producing one of the Best Doctoral Dissertations at MSU, a nod to his commitment to research and scholarly work.

Most recently, his tenure at the Property Division earned the university a Special Recognition Award from GSIS, honoring the historic insurance of all sixteen university buildings. In accepting the award, Dr. Pangandaman credited the achievement to the collective effort of the Property Division staff, university officials, and the guidance of MSU System President Atty. Paisalin P. D. Tago, CPA.

Personal Life

Dr. Pangandaman traces his heritage to Tugaya and Bubong, two towns in Lanao del Sur known for their distinct contributions to Meranaw culture, one for artistry and craftsmanship, the other as his ancestral home. This dual heritage remains part of who he is, grounding his public service work in a strong sense of cultural identity.

Legacy

Dr. Pangandaman's career reflects a steady, decades-long commitment to public service inside one institution. From rank-and-file employee to university director, his path shows what patience, integrity, and consistent performance can build over time. His work protecting MSU's physical assets, developing its students, and preserving its culture continues to shape how the university manages both its resources and its people. As he continues in his current role, he remains focused on strengthening the systems of accountability, transparency, and good governance that have defined his career so far.
