Dr. Asnawil G. Ronsing

Early Life and Background

Dr. Asnawil G. Ronsing hails from the Meranaw people, the indigenous "people of the lake" who have inhabited the Lanao provinces of Mindanao for centuries. Growing up within this rich cultural tapestry, where Islamic traditions and Filipino heritage interweave, Dr. Ronsing developed an early appreciation for the role of Shari'ah in community life. The Meranaw are known for their deep Islamic faith and scholarly traditions, and these values clearly shaped his trajectory toward becoming one of the Philippines' foremost authorities on Islamic law.

Education

Dr. Ronsing pursued his higher education at the International Islamic University Malaysia (IIUM), a premier institution recognized globally for its excellence in Islamic studies and jurisprudence. At IIUM, he immersed himself in the study of Shari'ah, gaining both theoretical knowledge and practical insights that would later define his career. The rigorous academic environment at IIUM equipped him with the tools to navigate complex legal questions at the intersection of Islamic and Philippine law, preparing him for a lifetime of service to his community and country.

Professional Career

Academic Leadership

Dr. Ronsing's career has been marked by significant leadership roles within the Mindanao State University (MSU) system and beyond. He served as Dean of the King Faisal Center for Islamic, Arabic, and Asian Studies (KFCIAAS) at MSU-Main Campus in Marawi City, where he oversaw programs that trained the next generation of Shari'ah scholars and legal practitioners. His tenure at KFCIAAS saw the center flourish as a hub for Islamic scholarship, drawing students not only from Mindanao but from across the Philippines and neighboring countries. In his current role as System President of RC-Al Khwarizmi International College Foundation, Inc. (RC-AKICFI), Dr. Ronsing provides strategic direction and policy formulation for the entire institution. Under his leadership, RC-AKICFI has expanded its academic offerings, including the establishment of a Senior High School program and specialized departments in Civil Engineering and Biology. His vision for RC-AKICFI goes beyond conventional education—he seeks to create what he calls a "Generation of Unity," grounded in both academic excellence and moral integrity.

Legal Consultation and Speaking Engagements

Beyond the walls of academia, Dr. Ronsing is a sought-after legal consultant and speaker on matters of Shari'ah law. He is frequently invited by the Philippine Consulate General in Jeddah and other governmental and international bodies to deliver lectures on Shari'ah Bar examinations, legal writing, and Bangsamoro affairs. His expertise bridges the gap between traditional Islamic jurisprudence and contemporary legal practice, making him an invaluable resource for policymakers, lawyers, and community leaders alike.

Contributions to Shari'ah Law

Published Works

Dr. Ronsing is the author of "Islamic Law on Succession," a critical reference that has become required reading for Shari'ah law practitioners and students throughout the Philippines. The book addresses complex questions of inheritance under Islamic law, providing clear guidance that honors both religious principles and Philippine legal contexts. His ability to distill intricate legal concepts into accessible language has made this work indispensable for anyone navigating succession matters in Muslim communities.

Institutional Development

Under Dr. Ronsing's presidency, RC-AKICFI has emerged as a model institution that balances modern educational standards with Islamic values. He has spearheaded the expansion of academic programs, ensuring that students receive comprehensive training in fields ranging from engineering to the biological sciences, all while maintaining a strong foundation in Islamic ethics. The institution's growth reflects his belief that excellence in education is a form of devotion—a principle he frequently emphasizes in his addresses to students and faculty.

Academic Mentorship

Dr. Ronsing's impact extends through the many students he has mentored over the years. Numerous graduates under his guidance have gone on to ace the Shari'ah Bar Examinations and achieve top honors at major universities. His mentorship style emphasizes not only mastery of legal principles but also the cultivation of moral character and community responsibility. Many of his former students now serve as lawyers, judges, and educators, carrying forward his vision of Shari'ah as a living tradition that serves contemporary needs.

Cultural Significance

Dr. Ronsing's work holds deep cultural significance for the Bangsamoro community and the broader Filipino Muslim population. As an expert in Shari'ah, he plays a critical role in preserving and institutionalizing Islamic jurisprudence within the Philippine legal system. His efforts help ensure that Muslim Filipinos can navigate personal and family matters—such as marriage, divorce, and inheritance—in accordance with their faith, while remaining fully integrated into the national legal framework. He is often called upon as a resource person for government missions and international delegations seeking to understand the nuances of Islamic law in the Philippine context. This work is particularly important in the Bangsamoro region, where the implementation of Shari'ah law is a key component of the broader peace and autonomy process.

Personal Values and Community Service

At the heart of Dr. Ronsing's philosophy is the conviction that excellence and moral governance are inseparable pillars of development. He frequently advocates for the pursuit of excellence as a form of devotion, urging students and colleagues alike to see their work as an act of worship. This principle animates his leadership at RC-AKICFI, where he has fostered a culture of high academic standards coupled with strong ethical commitments. Dr. Ronsing is also a strong proponent of community service. He actively supports initiatives such as the Ramadhan Donation Drive and blood-letting activities organized in partnership with the Philippine Red Cross. These efforts reflect his belief that education and scholarship must serve the broader good, addressing not only intellectual needs but also the material and social welfare of the community.

Legacy and Recognition

Dr. Asnawil G. Ronsing's legacy is written in the institutions he has led, the students he has mentored, and the legal frameworks he has helped shape. His work has ensured that Shari'ah law remains a vibrant and relevant part of Filipino Muslim life, while also contributing to the broader national dialogue on religious freedom, cultural diversity, and legal pluralism. As one of the foremost experts on Philippine Shari'ah Law, Dr. Ronsing has earned the respect of colleagues, students, and policymakers alike. His contributions to Islamic legal scholarship, combined with his dedication to education and community service, have made him a towering figure in Mindanao's academic and legal landscapes. For the Meranaw people and the wider Bangsamoro community, he represents the possibility of honoring tradition while embracing progress—a delicate balance that he has navigated with wisdom and grace throughout his career.
