Shihan Revie Saber Sumndad Sani

Shihan Revie Saber Sumndad Sani is a Maranao martial arts master, sports administrator, and community leader based in Marawi City, Lanao del Sur, in the heart of the Bangsamoro Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao (BARMM).

He serves as the BARMM Regional Director for the Karate Pilipinas Sports Federation Inc. (KPSFI), the only national governing body for karate officially recognized by the Philippine Olympic Committee and the World Karate Federation.

As the Chief Master Instructor of the Mindanao State University Karate Club (MSUKC), widely known as the "Warriors of the Lake," Sani carries forward one of the oldest and most culturally rooted martial arts institutions in the southern Philippines.

His legacy is built on a simple but powerful idea: that martial arts, practiced with integrity and discipline, can serve as a genuine force for peace.

Background

Revie Saber Sumndad Sani grew up in Marawi City, raised within a family that wove together Maranao royalty, Islamic scholarship, and a deep devotion to athletic excellence.

He is the son of Hanshi Professor Punduma Sumndad Sani, one of the most celebrated figures in Philippine martial arts history and a former statesman whose influence shaped the karate landscape across Mindanao.

Growing up on the main campus of Mindanao State University in Marawi, Revie was practically born into the dojo.

From early childhood, he trained directly under his father, absorbing not just the physical mechanics of combat but also the historical lineages of Okinawan karate, the deeper philosophical traditions of Japanese Budo, and the ethical codes that define Bangsamoro martial identity.

His wife, Sensei Sheryll Sani, has been a steady partner in building their shared mission. She serves as the primary administrative manager and logistics coordinator for their regional athletic delegations, keeping operations running smoothly behind the scenes.

Education and Martial Lineage

Sani completed his formal academic education at Mindanao State University, an institution where his family carries a long and distinguished legacy of academic leadership.

His deepest education, though, came through decades of rigorous classical martial arts training under the tradition of Japanese and Okinawan Karatedo.

The lineage that shaped him traces directly back to Okinawan masters of the Shorin-ryu and Shotokan traditions.

Hanshi Punduma Sani, his father and lifelong mentor, brought these structured systems to Mindanao in 1972, planting the roots of what would become one of the region's most enduring martial arts institutions.

Shihan Revie Sani now stands as the current standard-bearer of that system, certified under both national and international federations to license practitioners and award rank across the entire Bangsamoro region.

That certification isn't just a credential. It's a responsibility he takes seriously.

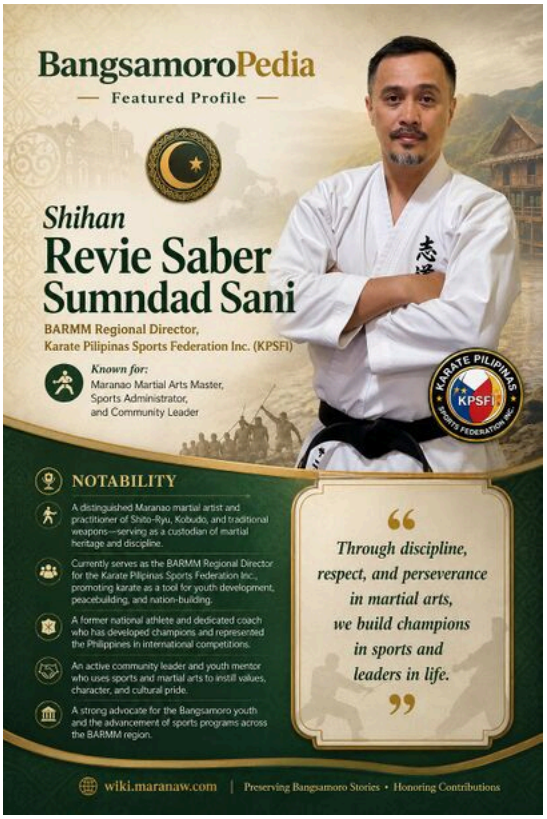

Career

Sani's career covers a wide range of roles: grassroots sports coach, regional athletic administrator, community builder, and volunteer program director.

Leadership of the MSUKC

When Sani took over the technical leadership of the Mindanao State University Karate Club (MSUKC), he inherited an institution with history, weight, and community trust behind it.

Under his guidance, the MSUKC evolved from a university-based club into a structured, non-profit development academy serving the broader Bangsamoro community.

He established localized training hubs, called dojos, across the region. One of the most notable outcomes of this effort is the Sapadan Martial Arts Center, a development hub that reinforces the club's historical footprint while expanding its reach to more communities.

BARMM Regional Directorate, KPSFI

As BARMM Regional Director for the Karate Pilipinas Sports Federation Inc., Sani took on the task of modernizing local tournament structures and bringing them into alignment with global standards.

He synchronized BARMM athletic criteria with World Karate Federation rules, creating legitimate national ranking pathways for athletes from conflict-vulnerable communities.

For many young athletes in the region, this wasn't a small thing. It meant that a karateka from Marawi City could compete on equal footing with athletes from Manila or Cebu.

Summer Karate Outreach Program (SKOP)

One of Sani's most impactful contributions is his leadership of the Summer Karate Outreach Program (SKOP), a regional youth development initiative he helped institutionalize under the Sani family's stewardship.

The program was originally conceptualized in the early 1990s and has since grown into one of the most recognized youth diversion initiatives in the Bangsamoro region.

SKOP provides free martial arts, self-defense, and physical fitness training to thousands of Maranao children every year.

The goal goes beyond athletics. By engaging young people in structured, discipline-driven activity, the program actively steers youth away from violent extremism, drug abuse, and localized clan conflicts known locally as rido.

For Sani, SKOP isn't a charity project. It's a long-term investment in the social fabric of Maranao communities.

Institutional Contributions

Sani's contributions extend well beyond his roles as coach and administrator.

He has worked to re-engineer how karate functions as a community institution in the Bangsamoro, transforming it from a sport practiced by a select few into a widely accessible discipline that anyone, regardless of background, can participate in.

His dojo philosophy explicitly breaks cultural and religious barriers. Under his watch, Christian and Muslim practitioners train side by side, under the same standards and the same expectations.

This inclusive approach has deep historical roots in the MSUKC. The club produced some of the region's earliest female martial arts leaders, including the late Sensei Chona Documento-Cuizon, who set early precedents for gender inclusivity in Bangsamoro sports.

Sani has continued and deepened that tradition, making it a defining characteristic of his leadership.

Achievements and Recognition

5th Karate Pilipinas National Championship

At the 5th Karate Pilipinas National Championship held in Tagaytay City, Sani led the MSUKC delegation into elite competition against a field of 1,231 athletes from across the country.

The MSUKC's performance at this national meet was significant enough that the Bangsamoro Parliament formally recognized it by issuing Resolution No. 460, a legislative commendation honoring the club's contribution to regional sports development.

WKF Karate 1-Youth League, Manila (2026)

In May 2026, Shihan Revie Sani served as head coach and national official at the WKF Karate 1-Youth League held at the SM Mall of Asia Arena in Manila, one of the most prestigious global youth karate tournaments on the international calendar.

He steered elite Maranao youth competitors into the highest tier of international sport karate, including Abdul Rauf Macawadib, Muhammad Affan-Khan Carimbaran, and Muhammad Ajwad-Khan Carimbaran.

Their presence on that international stage was a direct result of Sani's years of patient, systematic development work in the region.

Philosophy and Values

Shihan Revie Sani is known for a guiding principle he calls Martial Arts as Peacebuilding.

Rooted in his father's teachings and his own Islamic faith, Sani views karate not as an instrument of violence but as a framework for inner development. He draws on the Islamic concepts of Jihad al-Asghar (the lesser struggle, or physical discipline) and Jihad al-Akbar (the greater struggle, or mastery of the self) to frame what it means to truly practice martial arts.

His instructions to students consistently emphasize two things above all else: egalitarianism and character over title.

On egalitarianism, his position is direct. Everyone who steps onto the mat trains under the same rules and the same expectations, regardless of religion, gender, or background.

On character, he's equally clear. He frequently reminds students that legitimate leadership isn't measured by ranks, belts, or formal titles. It's measured by community care, personal restraint, and a willingness to serve from the ground up.

These aren't just words. They're principles he's demonstrated consistently throughout his career.

Cultural Significance

Within Maranaw society, Shihan Revie Sani occupies a unique and meaningful space.

He functions as a living bridge between the ancestral code of Maranao honor, known as Maratabat, and the demands and opportunities of modern civic leadership.

Maratabat is one of the most distinctive cultural values of the Maranao people. It speaks to dignity, personal honor, and the pride of one's lineage. Historically, it has sometimes fueled retributive conflicts between clans. Sani has spent his career redirecting that same energy, channeling it into athletic excellence, mental discipline, and international representation.

In a very real sense, he's taken one of the most complex cultural forces in Maranao life and turned it into a driver of positive community development.

He is, in the truest sense, a guardian of modern Maranao physical culture.

Legacy

Shihan Revie Saber Sumndad Sani's legacy is still being written, and that's perhaps the most compelling thing about it.

He's not a figure of the distant past. He's actively coaching, building programs, competing on international stages, and shaping the next generation of Maranao athletes right now.

What he's built through the MSUKC, SKOP, and the KPSFI regional directorate represents something rare: a sports institution that genuinely serves its community, that reflects the culture and values of the people it belongs to, and that reaches beyond sport toward something larger.

The Warriors of the Lake don't just compete. They carry a legacy with them onto every mat and into every arena.

And at the center of that legacy, guiding it forward, is Shihan Revie Sani.
