Founding and Establishment

The story of WIS traces back to the Wisdom International School for Higher Education Studies (WISHES), founded by Dr. Mamarinta Omar Mababaya, who served as President, and Dr. Norlain Dindang Mababaya, Chairman of the Board of Trustees. WISHES earned its DepEd recognition in May 2010 for pre-school and elementary levels in Davao City.

By 2012, the institution had grown enough to offer high school education, taking on the name Wisdom Islamic School, Davao City, Inc. The high school department opened its doors in the 2012-2013 school year, and by 2014-2015, the school had also secured government recognition for its pre-school and elementary levels.

Today, WIS is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and holds proper DepEd permits and recognitions, including Elementary Government Recognition (R-XI) No. 006 s. 2014 and Secondary Government Recognition (R-XI) No.

Blending national K-12 education with an authentic Islamic upbringing grounded in the understanding of the Salaf

Location and Facilities

WIS sits at Wisdom Compound, Abinsay Street, Dumanlas, Buhangin, Davao City, Davao del Sur. The campus is built to serve both regular and online learners, with classrooms and a masjid, Masjid Al-Hikmah, at its heart.

Over the years, the community has stepped up to support the school's growth. Recent projects funded through parental and donor involvement include electrical upgrades and masjid renovations such as ceiling repairs, fresh paint, comfort rooms, and wudoo areas.

Purpose and Curriculum

At its core, WIS is built around a simple but powerful vision: raising a learned, prosperous society that holds fast to authentic Islamic teachings. The goal is for students to grow into individuals who please Allah, live by pure Islamic principles, and work toward success in the Hereafter, all while getting a solid, well-rounded education.

To make that happen, the school blends DepEd-mandated subjects like English, Math, and Science with Arabic, Qur'an studies, and Islamic Studies covering Aqeedah, Fiqh, Hadith, and Seerah, along with character education woven throughout.

WIS follows the Salafi methodology in its approach to Islamic education and embraces blended learning to reach students both on campus and online. Its teaching staff includes graduates from respected institutions, among them Madinah University, and leadership includes members of the founding family, such as Ahmad D. Mababaya, who serves as CEO, President, and School Head, and Abdurrahman D. Mababaya, who serves as COO and Head Supervisor.

Programs and Activities

WIS keeps a full calendar of academic and community life going. On the academic side, the school runs the complete K-12 program with added Islamic components, plus support for students learning online.

Outside the classroom, students take part in inter-madrasah competitions, including the WISers Inter-Madrasah Invitational Cup, along with sports and other student-led activities.

The school also anchors a lot of community life. Weekly halaqah, or study circles, are held at the masjid for both adults and children, alongside Jumu'ah khutbahs, guest lectures, and fundraising drives for facility improvements.

Throughout the year, WIS holds general assemblies, orientations, and semestral breaks that follow both the academic and Hijri calendars, and the school takes part in local events like Eid bazaars.

The institution keeps its DepEd recognition current and takes part in teacher licensure efforts, counting LET passers among its faculty.

Contributions and Current Status

As one of only a handful of DepEd-recognized private Islamic schools in Davao City, WIS fills an important gap: giving Muslim students a way to hold onto their religious identity while still meeting national education standards, in a country where Muslims are a minority.

The school's approach has drawn academic attention too. A case study by Ahmad Dindang Mababaya looked into how WIS provides integrated education that parents see as balanced and effective.

As of 2026, WIS continues active enrollment for School Year 2026-2027, runs its ongoing classes, and keeps pursuing facility upgrades through community support. It remains a small-to-medium institution that has chosen to focus on quality over scale, and it holds a dedicated following within the local Muslim community.
