Background and Personal History

Ashary S. Tamano is a member of the Maranao people, one of the major Bangsamoro ethnolinguistic groups whose ancestral homeland centers on Lake Lanao in Mindanao, Philippines. His professional life reflects a transition from traditional public administration to technology-oriented roles during a period when information systems were becoming integral to governance and communication.

Over the course of his career, he has held various roles including researcher, planning officer, network administrator, planning director, web developer, multimedia designer, and information technology consultant.

Education

Tamano holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration, major in Economics.

In 1986, he completed a special study titled The Role of Minority Groups in the United States of America, conducted during a study tour to the United States from October 26 to November 28 of that year.<ref name="resume">Ashary S. Tamano, Curriculum Vitae, personal document, 2024.</ref>

Career

Southern Philippines Development Authority (1978–1981)

Tamano began his professional career in 1978 as a Research Analyst at the Southern Philippines Development Authority (SPDA). In 1980, after passing the Civil Service Professional examination, he was appointed as a Management Information Systems (MIS) Analyst, a role he held until 1981.<ref name="resume" />

Office on Muslim Affairs (1981–2000)

In 1981, Tamano joined the Office on Muslim Affairs (OMA), where he served for nearly two decades in various technical and planning roles.

Development and Planning

He served as Development Management Officer III from 1981 to 1989, followed by Planning Officer V from 1989 to 1993. His responsibilities included policy development, program coordination, financial analysis, and project evaluation.

Network Administration

From 1993 to 1996, he worked as Network Administrator, handling server configuration, network infrastructure, system administration, and IT security implementation.<ref name="resume" />

Planning Director

From 1996 to 2000, Tamano served as Planning Director of OMA. During this period, he developed the agency’s five-year Information System Strategic Plan (ISSP) in 1998. The plan was reviewed and approved by the National Computer Center and subsequently funded by the Department of Budget and Management.<ref name="resume" />

Saudi Arabia (1999–2017)

In 1999, Tamano relocated to Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, where he worked as an Internet Specialist and Network/System Administrator for CAPSA from July 1999 to June 2000.<ref name="resume" />

He later joined FIKRA Media Consultants in October 2000 as an Information Technology Specialist, Website/Multimedia Designer, and Network/System Administrator. He remained with the organization for over sixteen years and later served as an IT Consultant.

His work included the design, development, and maintenance of multiple client websites, as well as multimedia content production for various organizations in Jeddah.<ref name="resume" />

National Commission on Muslim Filipinos (2022–present)

On February 1, 2022, Tamano returned to Philippine government service as an IT Consultant for the National Commission on Muslim Filipinos (NCMF), the successor agency to the Office on Muslim Affairs.<ref name="resume" />

His work includes contributions to digital infrastructure, online information systems, and technology-supported services related to Muslim Filipino communities.
