Known For

Dean of the MSU Graduate School; leadership role in an Indonesian Islamic secondary education reform project

Jamiatul Philippine Al-Islamia

Dr. Zaman began his career as a high school classroom teacher at Jamiatul Philippine Al-Islamia in 1969, the same institution where he had completed his secondary education a few years earlier. From 1969 to 1974, he also served as Commandant of the school's PMTC program and as Senior Tactical Officer for its ROTC unit from 1970 to 1974.

He moved into academic leadership in 1973, becoming Assistant Principal of the High School Department, then College Instructor in 1974. That same year, he was named Assistant Dean of Colleges, a post he held until 1977. He served as Director for the Summer Institute in 1976 and again in 1983, and took on the role of Officer-in-Charge (OIC President) of the institution from 1977 to 1978, followed by a term as Acting Vice President for Academic Affairs from 1978 to 1979.

From 1976 to 1981, Dr. Zaman served as Dean of Colleges. He then transitioned into the Graduate School as Professor from 1984 to 1991, and took on consultancy roles within the institution, serving as Administrative Consultant from 1990 to 1994 and as Consultant for the Higher Education Department from 1995 to 1996. He capped his service at Jamiatul Philippine Al-Islamia as Vice President for Academic Affairs from 1997 to 1999.

Across more than two decades at the institution, Dr. Zaman held nearly every major academic leadership post available, reflecting a long and steady rise through the ranks of one of Marawi City's pioneering educational institutions.

Mindanao State University

Dr. Zaman's affiliation with Mindanao State University began in 1981, when he joined as Assistant Professor in the undergraduate and graduate programs. He was promoted to Associate Professor in 1982 and, in the same year, took on the additional role of Special Assistant in the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, a post he held until 1984.

He became Chairman of the Graduate Education Department from 1990 to 1993, and briefly served as Officer-in-Charge of the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs (OIC-OVCAA) in 1998. He was named full Professor at the Graduate School in 1994, a position he held until 1999.

Dr. Zaman's tenure at MSU reached its peak when he was appointed Assistant Dean of the Graduate School in 1997, and then Dean of the Graduate School in 1999, serving in that capacity until 2001.

International consultancy in Indonesia

The claim below regarding Dr. Zaman's role as Team Leader of the ADB-financed Madrasah Aliyah Development Project (Loan No. 1519-INO) could not be independently verified through available public ADB or academic records, and is presented here strictly as submitted by the source material pending confirmation.

According to source material submitted for this profile, during his tenure as Dean of the Graduate School, Dr. Zaman was granted a sabbatical leave to serve as Team Leader of the International Consultants for the Development of the Madrasah Aliyah Project in Indonesia, a project said to be financed by the Asian Development Bank (ADB) under Loan No. 1519-INO and implemented by Indonesia's Ministry of Religious Affairs from 1999 to 2001. The project is described as one of Indonesia's most significant educational reform initiatives for Islamic secondary education at the time.

As Team Leader, Dr. Zaman is said to have headed an international team of consultants from various countries, a distinction that would have made him one of the few Filipinos entrusted with leading a major international education project of this scale. Under his leadership, the consultancy team is described as having assisted in modernizing Indonesia's Madrasah Aliyah system, with work spanning the improvement of academic standards in science, mathematics, English, and other general education subjects while preserving Islamic values, the establishment of 35 Model Madrasah Aliyah Negeri (MAN) as centers of excellence, the training of professors, teachers, and school administrators, the improvement of educational management systems, and the development of policies, implementation manuals, and technical recommendations submitted to both Indonesia's Ministry of Religious Affairs and the Asian Development Bank.

If confirmed, this appointment would represent a distinction not only for Mindanao State University but for the Philippines more broadly, illustrating the capacity of Filipino Muslim educators to lead international educational reform efforts.

TEACHING LEGACY

Over more than thirty years as an educator, Dr. Zaman taught at the secondary, undergraduate, master's, and doctoral levels. His students went on to become educators, professionals, religious scholars, government officials, and community leaders across Lanao del Sur and beyond.

For several decades, Dr. Zaman was regarded as one of the most esteemed educators in the Province of Lanao del Sur. Many professionals and leaders from the province who pursued their education during the 1970s through the 1990s passed through his classrooms at some point in their academic journey, contributing in no small way to the intellectual and educational development of the Bangsamoro people.

PERSONAL LIFE

Dr. Zaman is married to Hadjah Rohaneza "Rocaya" Ibrahim Zaman. He practices Islam and identifies as Maranao.

LEGACY

Through his decades of service as a professor, university administrator, institutional leader, and (per submitted source material, pending verification) international consultant, Dr. Lumna G. Zaman is remembered as a foundational figure in the development of education in Marawi City and Lanao del Sur. His career reflects the broader story of Maranao educators who built and sustained institutions of higher learning in the Bangsamoro region across the second half of the twentieth century.
